

ACROSS FLORIDA, ATTORNEYS AND JUDGES have been donating their time to students for the purpose of furthering civic education. For years, Jacksonville Legal Aid attorney and Justice Teaching volunteer Megan Wall, center, has been conducting JT visits with Mill Creek Elementary School. When she visits Mill Creek Elementary, Wall said she has found the Justice Teaching "Invaders" activity, which is about the Bill of Rights, to be extremely well-received. Wall said the activity has produced "endless discussions" of how our fundamental rights are interrelated. "I hope I am doing this Justice Teaching as I should be," said Wall, who dedicates more time than most to Justice Teaching. "It is lots of fun, and the students love it, and even the teachers tell me they have learned a lot." Teachers describe the children as "lighting up" when they see Wall arrive. To learn more about the Justice Teaching program, visit www.justiceteaching.org.