

THE JUSTICE TEACHING initiative recently brought a number of students from Pinewood Elementary School in North Lauderdale to the Broward County Courthouse to visit with Chief Judge Victor Tobin, above. The field trip was set up by JT volunteer Anthony Carriouolo, who has worked with Pinewood for the past two years. The students also sat in on a trial and visited with other lawyers and court reporters. "The Justice Teaching program has been an excellent opportunity for Pinewood students to experience the Constitution in action," said Ronna Brown, a teacher at Pinewood Elementary. Volunteers are always needed to partner with local schools. Trainings are held throughout the year. For more information, visit www.justiceteaching.org.
