

February 1, 2010

JUSTICE TEACHING VOLUNTEERS ROBIN ARNOLD AND RENEE PELZMAN recently conducted a two-and-one-half hour case study on Fourth Amendment search and seizure issues with seniors in an advanced placement government class at West Port High School in Marion County. For the past 20 years, Arnold, third from left, has served as an assistant state attorney and is currently the division supervisor of the Marion County State Attorney's Office. Pelzman, second from left, recently relocated to Marion County from the South Florida area to open the Ocala office of the firm that she operates with her husband Brian. Their daughter is a student at West Port High School. A West Port senior who recently had been accepted to Stetson University advised the volunteers she is now rethinking her career options because the case study sparked her interest in how the judicial branch operates and interacts with the other branches of government.